In the implementation of the Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions, the Ministry of Culture develops its policies on the basis of the shared understanding that cultural diversity is stimulated by the free exchange of ideas and interaction between cultures. The policy of the Ministry is aimed at encouraging creativity, artists and all people working in the field of culture, which has a positive effect on the renovation of forms of cultural expression. A key principle of the country’s cultural policy is guaranteeing human rights and fundamental freedoms, expressed by access to information, communication, free choice of forms of cultural expression. The fundamental rights and freedoms of citizens are guaranteed by the Constitution of the Republic of Bulgaria and they found an expression in the legislation in the field of culture. In this sense, the policies of the Ministry of Culture are devoted to the principles of equal merit and respect for all cultures; equal access to cultural heritage and to the diversity of forms of cultural expression, protection of cultural diversity and intercultural dialogue. A key principle of the policies of the Ministry of Culture is that of sustainable development, and more specifically the understanding that the preservation, encouragement and maintenance of cultural diversity are a major precondition for sustainable development to the benefit of the present and future generations. Special protection is provided to traditional forms of cultural expression, including language diversity, as an important condition for the exchange of ideas and values between people and communities (Cultural Development Act, Cultural Heritage Act). In its legislation the Republic of Bulgaria guarantees the right of people from various ethnic communities to disseminate and convey their traditional forms of cultural expression, as well as to have free access to them in order to use them for their own development (Constitution of the Republic of Bulgaria, Protection and Development of Culture Act). In addition to improving legislation towards achieving the goals of the Convention, the Ministry of Culture develops the respective policies, measures and programs to encourage creativity among individuals and social groups, for increasing citizens’ awareness of the diversity of forms of cultural expression. The Ministry’s programs are aimed at expanding opportunities for development of cultural activities on the local, regional, national and international level, providing equal access to resources for the production, distribution and exchange of cultural products and services. Among others, the measures include granting specific financial aid for specialized institutions so that they are encouraged to participate in the creation of diverse forms of cultural expression. The achievements of the Ministry of Culture include the cooperation established with NGOs, public and private institutions, artists and other professionals in the field of arts and culture to solve problems, develop adequate policies and measures encouraging creativity and entrepreneurship in the sphere of culture. A great challenge and achievement is the cooperation created between the various ministries to apply the integrated approach to the strategic planning of measures for sustainable development of society. Thus, culture became an important, integral part of national plans to overcome demographic problems, to decrease poverty, to guarantee social inclusion, regional development, development of youth policies, in terms of the national concept of active living of the elderly, which is an acknowledgement that the abundance of forms of cultural expression contributes to the achievement of these goals, which are also included in the millennium development goals. This model is applied in the draft 2020 National Development Program (NDP) of the Republic of Bulgaria, which comprises only measures guaranteeing development in the years to come. Considering that the Program is being developed in times of crisis, the place culture has found in it is indicative of the potential of this field among the general measures for influencing the welfare of people. In compliance with the 2020 NDP of the Republic of Bulgaria, the Ministry of Culture develops the 2020 National Strategy for Development of Bulgarian Culture and Arts. The strategic vision of the development of culture will be in line with the purposes of the present Convention.

2.1 Cultural policies and measures

The purpose of this section is to report on cultural policies and measures in place to promote the diversity of cultural expressions at the different stages of creation, production, distribution, dissemination and participation/enjoyment.

• form part of an enabling environment for independent producers and distributors

a) What are the main objective(s) of policy or measure? When was it introduced?

In Bulgaria there is a network of people’s community cultural centers (“chitalishta”), a total of 3,500, located throughout the whole country. They are self-governing associations which are not-for-profit entities whose activities include state cultural and education tasks. The Minister of Culture oversees their development, analyses their activity and provides methodological and financial support. The main purpose of this policy is to maintain the viability of the community cultural center system, to bring modernization therein and to gradually turn them into contemporary cultural centers attractive for all ages and circles of society. Other goals include creating conditions for creativity, utilization of cultural values, solidarity between generations and exchange of ideas and traditional values.

b) How has it been implemented?

The creation, management and operation of people’s community cultural centers (“chitalishta”) are governed by the People’s Community Cultural Centers Act. This Act undergoes regular updating to respond to the needs of community cultural centers and the expansion of their activities. With the last amendments of 2009, community cultural centers are allowed to associate at their own discretion, mostly on territorial principle, so that they can implement larger projects in the field of culture. In 2011, a new draft was developed for amending and supplementing the People’s Community Cultural Centers Act, which provides for certain functions of the district administrations in order to introduce better regional policies. In addition, certain conditions were procured for attracting more young people in the administration of community cultural centers to improve their management. The draft has reached the National Assembly of the Republic of Bulgaria.

c) What challenges have been identified in the implementation of this measure?

The major challenge identified in relation to the policy in the field of community cultural centers is related to attracting young people in their management and operation, which involves better payment for workers within the system, as well as the creation of a favorable environment for their modernization, more specifically in rural areas which is related to improvement of the quality of life there.

d) At what level was the policy / measure designed to have an impact?

Local  Regional  National  International

Has the impact of this policy / measure been investigated?

No  Yes

If yes, what was the impact:

As a result of the policy of the Ministry of Culture and the legislative, institutional and financial measures taken, the number of community cultural centers throughout the country is increasing, as is the number of people who get assistance so that they can implement their initiatives and ideas in the field of culture to the benefit of the local population. It should be noted that in the last ten years ethnic communities in Bulgaria have created community cultural centers as well so that they can maintain their idiosyncratic cultural identity. Within the system of community cultural centers, there are about 8 000 permanent employees, professionals and amateurs in all domains of art, librarians, language teachers, regional ethnographers, managers, etc. As a result of the state policy implemented in the last two years, 900 libraries of community cultural centers are connected in a global network for better access to information and to human knowledge. More and more community cultural centers have modern equipment; for example, the government has provided 6 355 PCs and 1 636 community cultural centers have an internet connection. Classes in community cultural centers – dance, singing, music, etc., are now 2 158, the greatest number of them being designed for children (1 204). There are 501 circles and 1 763 clubs in the field of art and traditional culture. Community cultural centers also host language courses, now 388, mostly foreign languages followed by Bulgarian and mother tongues. There is considerable interest in theater as well – there are 444 theater schools, groups and companies, the greatest number being those for adults followed by children’s groups. There is an exceptionally large number of singing groups – 2 904, mostly for traditional folk music. Choir art is endangered in terms of its development among children and young people. There are 231 choirs of which only 38 are for children and 24 are for young people. As at today, community cultural centers maintain 1 901 dance groups, the greatest number of which again cover traditional folk dances, but their number is balanced between children, young people and adults. 866 community cultural centers have attracted for their activities representatives of the various ethnic communities which helps intercultural dialogue and the creation of new forms of cultural expression. To preserve the local historical and cultural memory of the settlement, community cultural centers maintain archive collections (currently a total of 240), which also receives support from the government. The number of community cultural centers which have undergone modernization and renovation is still small, this is a slow process because it requires financial resources and administrative capacity in the field of community cultural centers.

What indicators were used to lead to this conclusion?

Every year community cultural centers fill in a questionnaire developed by the Ministry of Culture in which they provide the number and type of activities, the forms they maintain, the equipment they have at their disposal, the condition of the buildings and facilities, additional protected projects under national and international programs, which is used by the Ministry of Culture to perform analyses and accordingly to identify priorities in this field for the next year.
The purpose of this section is to report on measures aimed at facilitating international cooperation and preferential treatment to artists and cultural professionals, as well as cultural goods and services from developing countries.

Measures are understood as legal, institutional and financial frameworks, policy and programme activities that, for example:

- support the mobility of artists and cultural professionals abroad (sending and receiving);
- provide greater market access for the distribution of cultural goods and services from developing countries through specific agreements;
- strengthen independent cultural industries as a means to contribute to economic growth, poverty reduction and sustainable development;
- aim to build institutional and management capacities through international cultural exchange programmes or partnerships among civil society organizations and networks.

For more information on the types of measures to be reported on, please refer to Article 12 (Promotion of international cooperation), Article 14 (Cooperation for development), Article 16 (Preferential treatment for developing countries) and their corresponding Operational Guidelines.

b) How has it been implemented?

For community cultural centers it is characteristic that as a result of the state financial support they maintain activities with lower fees than those of private schools, they offer price discounts and free services for disadvantaged people. The same policy shall be applied in all spheres of culture. Special attention is brought to the application of measures related to culture and art training of people with special educational needs. The measures so introduced include physical access to the buildings of schools of arts and culture, improvements in the legislation governing the admission of children with disabilities, provision of resource teachers. There is a special program for giving scholarships to talented children. Another important measure is the provision of accessible environment of cultural sites. Improved internet access through public libraries allows people to get informed about the labor market as well. Informal learning, life-long learning opportunities increase people’s chances of personal realization and social inclusion.
